DEBATING SOCIETY ACHIEVEMENT

Winning Debate

Motion: “Women are more complicated than men”

Position: Opposition

In this competitive debate, I opposed the motion by demonstrating that the statement was an overgeneralization. I defined “complicated” as difficult to understand and argued that women’s behaviors are surely explainable by the opposition team, highlighting the contradiction. Using logic and evidence to challenge stereotypes, structuring our arguments, delivering clear rebuttals, and coordinating effectively as a team, we successfully secured a decisive win.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS EXPERIENCE

3 years

Over three years, I actively participated in the Model United Nations, engaging in debates on international and geopolitical issues. This experience strengthened my analytical thinking, diplomacy, and collaborative skills through structured debate and teamwork. MUN provided me with an international platform to research, analyze, and discuss real-world challenges from multiple perspectives.

This long-term involvement reflects my commitment to global awareness, leadership, and intellectual discourse, and has played a key role in shaping my analytical thinking and communication skills.
